a. Study Tours

i) Santiniketan and Kankalitala village

Department of Bengali and Department of English collaboratively organised a study tour to Santiniketan and Kankalitala village on 18-19 February, 2019

Objective: The location under discussion is intrinsically linked to the renowned Nobel laureate, Rabindranath Tagore, who established Visva Bharati in this area as a means to propagate his educational philosophy. Since the students will be reading "Muktadhara" in their semester V, where Tagore introduced a new kind of street theatre technique, this visit will assist them to realize the historical significance of this place. Furthermore, during the sixth semester of English Honours, the students will engage in the study of "My Reminiscence," an autobiographical work authored by Tagore. Therefore, a visit to the Tagore museum and the surrounding area of Santiniketan will be beneficial in gaining a deeper understanding of Tagore's philosophical and literary works. On the other hand, Kankalitala happens to be the setting of Tarashankar Bandyopadhyay's "Hansuli Baker Upakatha". So, the tour will make them understand the cartographical background and the lives of the marginalized tribal society.

Number of Participants: 27 (Students), 5 (Teachers)

Tour Coordinator: Dr. Anjana Brahma, HoD, Department of Bengali, K. K. Das College

Srijani Shilpa Gram

A place where the cultural history and heritage of Eastern India is demonstrated through models and statues, a beautiful place to visit , constructed by EZCC.

KANKALITALA

An age-old Kali temple beside river Kopai, where a very large fair is held in every Chaitra, the last month of Bengali Calendar which is a big cultural festival of the local rural people. Renowned Bengali Novelist Tarashankar Bandyopadhyay based the plot of his famous short-story Nagini upon this place.

Black-House

A house made of mud and straws, with relief work upon its walls, constructed by two artists Nandalal Bose and Surendranath Kar from renowned Bengal School of Art. Now this house is used as a boy's hostel.

River Kopai

This river of Birbhum district of West Bengal became famous after eminent novelist Tarashankar Bandyopadhyay wrote his beautiful novel Hansuli Banker Upakatha based upon the rural life around this river, which is a text prescribed for the students of Bengali Hons. Rabindranath Tagore also explored this river in many of his writings.

Students in front of Sculpture By Ramkinkar Baij

Ramkinkar came from a rural area of Bankura district, as a student in the art school Kala Bhavana of Santiniketan, and later he became one of the most prominent Sculptor from Bengal. He innovated the medium of sculpture with the raw laterite soil mixed with cement, which is strong, but lower in cost. This sculpture is named The Santhal Family.

ii) Jorasanko

Department of Bengali organised a study tour to Jorasanko on 21 April, 2022

Objective: Jorasanko emerged as a prominent cultural nexus throughout the nineteenth century in Bengal. The act of visiting this location can be seen as a means of reconnecting with the historical legacy of individuals such as Rabindranath Tagore, Swarnakumari Devi, and other prominent figures. Given their engagement with the literary works of Swarnakumari Devi and her significant impact on the women's literary tradition within the historical context of Bengali Literature, this visit holds potential benefits for them. Furthermore, they were able to catch a glimpse of Tagore's extensive body of work.

Number of Participants: 34 (Students), 5 (Teachers)

iii) North Bengal

Department of English organised a study tour to North Bengal 21- 25 May, 2022

Objective: While North Bengal may not be explicitly incorporated into the English Honours curriculum, it can offer valuable insights into the lives and challenges faced by geographically isolated communities in India. The possibility of a location characterised by natural beauty and life-threatening environmental conditions to inspire the creation of literature can also be appreciated. An example that could be used in this context is the poetry of Mamang Dai, which is studied in the sixth semester.

v) Cemeteries

Department of Bengali organised a study tour to three separate cemeteries in Kolkata, on 22 December, 2022.

Objective: Park Street Cemeteries are the marker of the cultural past of Bengal as it is the graveyard of the many Bengali intellectuals including historian, poet, literati, and social reformers among others. Our students could witness the grave of Michel Madhusudan Dutta who once revolutionized the tradition of Bengali poetry in the nineteenth century Bengal during its renaissance. Additionally, they also saw the grave of John Elliot Drinkwater Bethun, who left significant influence in the circulation of women education in Bengal.

Number of Participants: 52 (Students), 5 (Teachers)

Tour Coordinator: Dr. Anjana Brahma, HoD, Department of Bengali, K. K. Das College

b. Museum visit

Department of History organised a study tour to visit Indian Museum, Kolkata, on 27 February, 2019.

Objective: The main objective of this tour was to supplement the book-oriented study of history with live experiences of field-survey. To understand the heritage of India, a deep understanding of its past is necessary. A tour through various sections in the museum has made that past lively to the students. The main objective of the tour has been well-served as it encouraged our students to embrace the main essence of studying history.

Number of Participants: 31 (Students), 3 (Teachers)

Tour Coordinator: Dr. Sreyashi Sarkar, HoD, Department of History, K. K. Das College

Students' e-Workshop on Online Learning Methodology using Google Classroom

Organized by IQAC, Department of Computer Science, K. K. Das College
Online Mode
Date:14.09.2020

Department of Computer Science and IQAC
K.K.Das College
Kolkata-84

Organising Students' e-Adhyayan (e-Workshop) on Online Learning Methodology using
Google Classroom

Dear Students,
You all are concerned about the increasing threat of COVID-19 and searching for a solution by which normal activities can be performed while maintaining the norms of social distancing. Students are also facing the same situation. Fortunately, alternatives are there to holding face-to-face classes. It's important to prepare students ready for the technology-driven techniques. Department of Computer Science & IQAC of K.K.Das College is organising e-Adhyayan for Students to build confidence of e-learning to the students using Google platform.
This Students' e-Adhyayan will provide each participant enough confidence to use e-classroom for their studies.

A Direction Map To Reach My Home Starting From My College

I am a student of K.K. Das College (B.A. General, Semester II). I love to go to my college regularly. My home is not far away from my college. The distance between my college to my home is 3.5 km. To reach my home from my college I have to follow the following path:

First I have to take an auto from my college gate to reach Dhalas Bridge (1.5 km). After reaching Dhalas Bridge I need to take another auto to reach Kamalgas Auto Stand (1.5 km). Kamalgas Auto Stand is very close to my home (walking distance 100 m approx), near Sakha Garden.

Character analysis of Binola in The Home and the World.

Abstract

The following term paper was to analyze the uncertain representation of woman in Rabindranath Tagore's Home and the World through the character of Binola. The narrative acknowledges various facets of Binola's character, such as her agency, femininity and inner strength while portraying her as the female voice through the use of Binola's image to compare Binola and associating her with the politics of nationalism. Tagore shows his deep concern to early nationalist thinking. Presenting Binola in multidimensional ways, she has been established as both who or without agency, celebrating and simultaneously subverting her female femininity.

Keywords : - new women nationalism, ambiguous, gender marginalization.

"Project"

Abstract

This article frames Herges' "The Adventures of Tintin" in terms of its treatment of ethnic, cultural and geographic others. The series has been accused of founding right wing, racist and reactionary viewpoints into its codes of visual representation and storytelling. I argue that the pervasiveness of "the series" its institutionalization in francophone culture and its currency as a global franchise makes the question one of particular relevance as a genre which big budget productions by Steven Spielberg and Ben Jackson look set to further cement Tintin's place in popular culture.

Key Words

- Tintin's main character

- The Blue Lotus
- Tintin in the Congo
- Adventure of Tintin - Comic Series
- Leon Dagnelle - Tintin of Belgium's own fascist movement.

"Representation of the artist by Herges in Tintin in Tibet"

Herges was one of the most prolific and popular of 20th century comic artists, but the shades of ethnic chauvinism that colour early Tintin adventures and ongoing questions surrounding his politics have considerably nuanced critical reception. This article seeks to contextualize Herges' representation of ethnicity and place in mid 1930s China in "The Blue Lotus", a work that is widely regarded as both as a masterpiece in its own right and a turning point in Herges' execution of the other. In it, the challenges of portraying anthropological "others", foregrounding Tintin's friendship with a young Chinese boy he meets in the course of the adventure and championing a Chinese view of Japanese invasion of Manchuria, the setbacks against which the book is set.

Even so, "The Blue Lotus" is unable entirely to shake off an Orientalist gaze and raises its own problematic for contemporary audiences, eastern and western. Contextualizing this pivotal album and the position it occupies within Herges' oeuvre requires consideration of the preceding and subsequent albums in "The adventures of Tintin", particularly the works set in Russia, the Rabindranath Tagore's eighth novel, The Home and the World, the translation of Ganga - Bansa published in 1916. Illustrates the triumph of the individual over the nation of Bengal in 1905 and the nationalist worship of Mother India around 19th century. The novel is set against the rising tide of nationalist movement, which emerged as the politically charged response to the - Act of Partition, surrounding around the story of three main characters, Binola, who had studied in Paris - lation of politics is clear in the novel, but the image of woman, through the character of Binola, participating in gender marginalization and anti-colonial politics to uncertain.

Like Subhadra and Lotia, the heroines of Tagore, Binola, the heroine of Home and the World, connects the private space - the home - with the public space - the world by receiving liberal education and participating in the traditional duties of a housewife on the one hand and performing the traditional duties of a housewife on the other. The narrative of the novel shows her struggle with Binola by associating her with the politics of nationalist - in, Rabindranath's supportive view about women's emancipation, as women participate in various national - in through Binola's tragedy, the narrative, in turn, reveals Binola's agency which the politics of social - and activities. ABSTRACT

Joseph Conrad's Heart of Darkness, is one of the most famous and controversial works of all time. Conrad uses the frame narrative, a story within a story, in which the text's beginning and ending occur at roughly the same time and place, but the bulk of the action unfolds through a series of flashbacks. The real action is the reconstruction of a character or character's memories.

In addition to the frame narrative, Conrad also uses a double narrator. Marlow's story is relayed to us second-hand, through the transcripts of a narrator who's never named, one who looks on from the safe sound of Marlow's voice in the dark. Like also hypnotized, blinded in the darkness, captured by the words of a stranger.

2. Narrative
3. Framework
4. Marlow

①

In his only novels like Almayer's Folly, Secret of the Islands and The Nigger of the 'Arcadia', Joseph Conrad employed the voice of conventional omniscient narrator. But in Heart of Darkness, Conrad's narrative technique is different. The frame narrator and the inner narrator Marlow explore through their eyes the psychology of European colonialism in the 19th century. The narrative reveals the tension between the colonial discourse of civilizing mission and the hideous colonial reality. This modern device of a story within a story has been very skillfully handled by Conrad in Heart of Darkness.

The frame narrator introduces Marlow to the reader, the narrator, when Marlow is over and starts explaining his young and anonymous frame narrator becomes one of the narrators. Set in a yacht docked in the estuary, the frame narrator along with other occupants of the yacht who listen silently to Marlow's tale about his quest in search of Kurtz, provides the outer frame of the narrative. Here Joseph Conrad attempts to enhance the realism of the frame narrator only takes part in Marlow's tale and becomes changed by it. As is evident in his awareness at the end of the story that the Thames leads to the heart of an immense darkness.

Abstract

Joseph Conrad used several techniques in the novel Heart of Darkness. In the novel, Conrad uses the narrative structure in the way that it keeps them apart so as to create a sense of distance and distance to the reader. The narrators were designed to help the reader understand the events of the story. The first narrator opens the story and then a second narrator and at last a third narrator.

 $= (0, 1, 0)$

Let  $u_3 = P_3 - d_1 P_1 - d_2 P_2$

Now,  $d_1 = \frac{\langle P_1, P_3 \rangle}{\|P_1\|^2} = \frac{1+0+1}{2} = 1$

$d_2 = \frac{\langle P_2, P_3 \rangle}{\|P_2\|^2} = \frac{1+3+4}{2} = \frac{8}{2} = 4$
